DRINKING FOUNTAIN

Contracted For By Daughters of The Confederacy Corner
Main And Ninth

WORK TO BE PUSHED.

Will Commemorate the Heroism of Christain County Soldiers.

The drinking fountain committee of the U. D. C., with the addition of Messrs. C. F. Jarrett, Nat Gaither and M. H. Nelson, met Monday afternoon and awarded the contract for the fountain to the Davis Monument Co., of this city.

The fountain is to be of white Southern Marble with the latest improved sanitary overflow drinking cups, on four sides. It will be not less than seven feet in length, 3 1/2 feet square at the base and surmounted by a pyramid of four cannon balls seven inches in diameter.

The inscription on one side will be: 1861-1865 Erected by Christian County Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, in honor of the Confederate Soldiers from Christian county, Kentucky.

The work is to be completed by the middle of September and the dedication of the fountain will be an event of much interest.

The location selected by the ladies is the southwest corner of intersection of Main and Ninth streets, at the curbline of the sidewalk. Since 1906 when "Why Smith Left Home" was given by home talent, the accumulation of a fountain fund has been the main work of the Chapter. The fund has been added to by various entertainments given by the members and the money is on hand to pay for the monument.

The Committee in charge of the erection is as follows:

Mesdames Chas. M. Meacham, Chairman; L. McF. Blakemore, C. G. Duke, C. F. Jarrett, M. H. Nelson, Nat Gaither, Alex G. Warfield, P. E. West, D. W. Kitchen, J. H. Henry, Hunter Wood, Jr. and Miss Fannie Bell Bronaugh, C. F. Jarrett, Nat Gaither and M. H. Nelson.

AID FOR FRIENDLESS

Rev. R. A. Hoffman, Represents A Most Worthy Society.

Rev. R. A. Hoffman, District Superintendent of the Kentucky Society for the friendless, is in the city soliciting aid for the work, which is along the lines of prevention of crime, prison reform, jail and prison evangelism, and the care of the friendless, homeless ex-prisoners. Its work is done strictly within the state of Kentucky, every dollar being expended in the state.

Two streams of humanity are issuing from our two state prisons that must be given a place to earn an honest living, or soon they must be returned to prison at fifty times the cost of helping and saving them. Mr. Hoffman spoke at several of the churches Sunday.

The Society is incorporated and has its headquarters in Frankfort. The present Manager is Judge J. H. Hazelrigg, former chief justice of the court of appeals. It is nonpartisan and nonsectarian.

JOE ARVIN HELD OVER

On Charge of Criminal Neglect of His Sick Child.

CASE WAS INVESTIGATED.

Boy Four Years Old Taken
From His Parents and Sent to An Orphan Home.

Joe Arvin, a painter in the employ of the Mogul Wagon Works, was tried before County Judge Knight Tuesday on a charge of criminal neglect in failing to care for his child, Ura Arvin, aged 4 years.

A week or ten days ago the case was reported to Mayor Meacham and Inspector M. W. Merritt was sent to investigate. He found the child weak, emaciated from a protracted spell of dysentery, dirty, unkempt and neglected. He was sitting on the ground and from having been left in the hot sun his hands and feet were blistered, his feet swollen and his skin wherever exposed, tanned the color of a mulatto. The child pointed to his sore feet and begged the officer for something to eat. On the report of officer Merritt, the mayor sent City Physician J. W. Harned to look after the child. He found that its life might be saved by prompt action. Dr. J. E. Stone and Dr. L. A. Tate had attended it early in June, but since that time it had been without medical attention. While preparations were being made to send the child to a hospital, Mr. W. D. Uumphrey, of the Kentucky Children's Home, became interested in the case and the child was taken by the officer in charge of the case before Judge Knight, and his father giving consent, was taken by Mr. Humphrey to the home at Louisville a week ago. There he is receiving every care and attention and his condition is steadily improving.

Monday a warrant for the arrest of the father and stepmother of the child was issued and the examining trial was held as above stated. Arvin was held over to the September grand jury under a $200 bond.

Many neighbors of the family testified to the lack of attention to the boy's needs and some of them had from time to time called at the Arvin home on Bentley street and fed, bathed and furnished the child with clean clothing. Among these were Mrs. J. M. Ladd, Mrs. T. C. Dossett, Miss Ellen Wicks, Mrs. C. S. Hancock, Mrs. Morgan and others. Mrs. Fowler, grandmother of the child, and Mrs. Melton, his aunt, testified that he was sick at the Fowler home in the country and his father would not come to see about him, that he came once for 30 minutes in two weeks, and that the child, when able to travel, was brought to his parents.

The Arvins were defended by G. W. Southall, their defence being that they were too poor to do more for the child and that the step-mother, a young woman only recently married, was herself sick a part of the time. The case has attracted much attention since the boy was taken to Louisville.

The neglect of the child, it appears, was due more to ignorance and lack of experience, as well as the poverty of the parents, than to an intentional and criminal disregard of the attention needed by the sick child.

The neighbors of the family, themselves poor people, deserve praise for calling the attention of the authorities and helping to keep the boy alive until relief came.

Adrian William Greif, secretary of the Elks lodge, a Confederate veteran, a Knight Columbus, for years a legislator of Paducah and one of the city's most progressive citizens, died at Paducah, Monday.

MAN ARRESTED HERE

Taken to Hancock County
Tuesday Night.

Noel Bowman, whose arrest was made in this city Monday by Marshal Long, of Crofton, was taken to Hancock County Tuesday night. Bowman is thought to be the man wanted at Lewisport for the killing of Bert McCarty, a railroad agent. A reward of $250 has been offered for the murderer of McCarty.

Evas About to Let Their Franchise Go to South Bend.

The Evansville club according to reports is about to be transferred to South Bend, on account of poor patronage. It is claimed their attendance on week days averages, about 400, while on Sunday the crowd is larger. With a Kitty franchise and salary limit Evansville would make the game profitable and would be a fine addition to the league. The cash guarantee per game of the two leagues is the same. The attendance here will average more than 400 and the salary and team limit keep the clubs evenly balanced.

Injured Internally.

Lucian Johnson, the little son of Mr. J. C. Johnson who was injured by being run over by a buggy and who was taken to Evansville Sunday, had an operation performed. The surgeon found that the little fellow's intestines had been perforated. His condition is quite serious and it is feared that he will not recover.

THE COLLEGE GRIND.

Ten years from now some of the young men who are to be graduated from college this month will be heard to say: "There's Bill Smith. He was my classmate. He spent most of his time having fun and trying to prevent me from studying. Look at him now. He is one of the leading men of his profession."

But they will fail to take notice that Bill Smith is probably the only one of his kind in the class and that a score of the fellows who had been "grinds" were just as far on the road to success, with better chances of going to the end of it, than he. The records of the careers of college men bear out the fact that this is invariably the rule. The Cornell Era has just published statistics showing that a majority of its graduates—170 having been taken as a basis for the calculation—who have attained distinction in various walks of life.—Cleveland Leader.

COLLEGE WOMEN AND MARRIAGE.

A good many women do not marry. Probably the proportion of marriages worthy the name would be found, if we could make an accurate census, as large among college women as among others. It is not a college course that takes a woman out of the marrying class, but something with which her education has rarely anything to do—native traits, or domestic responsibilities, or the lack of a calling for matrimony, or accident, or any of a thousand things which might have diverted the current of your career and mine without our voluntary complicity.—Francis E. Leupp in Atlantic.

GRABBED HIS CHANCE.

DIDN'T SEEM TO WORK OUT

Dog Owner's Idea Bright Enough, but Somehow Her Memory Got Twisted.

To Miss Bounce, who knows nothing whatever about dogs and can scarcely tell a greyhound from a St. Bernard, Mr. Kennell presented a fine young Airdale terrier. He was extremely wide awake and active, even for a pup, and the young lady was kept constantly on the alert to prevent his getting into mischief or running into danger. Casting about in her mind for a suitable name for this restless animal Miss Bounce remembered that in her school days she had learned in her philosophy that "wind is air in motion." What more appropriate name, then, for the young Airdale than Wind. So Wind he was called. His name, thought Miss Bounce, also will aid me memorably to remember the name of the species to which he belongs.

"What kind of a dog is that pup of yours?" asked some one a few weeks after the christening.

Miss Bounce's eyes roved anxiously for an instant, but steadied themselves directly as she replied with serene confidence, "He is a Wind Hound."

GRIPS AS MUSCLE BUILDERS

Traveling Salesman Seems to Have Idea Which Might Really Be Called a Good One.

After dinner they were discussing athletics, and each had his favorite method of reducing or building up. The traveling salesman proudly called attention to a remarkable development of biceps which swelled up beneath his coat sleeve.

"Very good, indeed," said the professor, testing with his fingers. "How do you accomplish it?"

"My method is extremely simple and takes no time away from my work. In fact, it is a result. These muscles have been developed by carrying heavily loaded 'grips,' as we usually call our big handbags on the road. I always carry two, loaded as nearly alike as possible, so I shall not grow one-sided. I began with only one grip, and swung it from one hand to the other, as fatigue impelled, but I found that it is actually easier to carry two than one. I am perfectly balanced with two, and I assure you I need no extra gym work for strengthening my arms, shoulders or back. I almost could carry a piano in each hand if the instruments were not so cumbersome."

Actor's Proper Place.

Mahlon Ivans, Jr., of Merchantsville has a reputation as an actor and takes part in nearly all of the local shows. In the last show that was given, Shorty had one of the leading parts. After the show, while he was taking off his makeup, an elderly man made his appearance in the doorway. "Are you Mr. Ivans?" inquired the old man. "Yes," replied Shorty, as he motioned him to be seated. "Well," the old man continued, "I just want to tell you something. I've been watching your acting tonight. You should not be playing in this town; you should be with Mansfield, Booth or Irving, or Joe Jefferson." "Why-why," said Shorty, "those actors are dead." "I know it," said the old man, as he turned on his heel and left.—Philadelphia Times.

Wanted the Day to Himself.

Nothing makes us quite so weary as these elaborate, gotten-up-ahead-of-time jokes that some people stage and spring with such a dramatic effect. Our Washington correspondent told us of one of these, the other day. A man went into the patent office, last week, and said he wanted a copyright. They steered him to the right department, and he opened up like this:

"This is Saturday, is it not? Thank you. I understand that you will not issue a copyright on Sunday?"

"No, sir. That is the rule."

"But you will issue a copyright on any other day of the week?"

"Yes, sir."

"I'm so glad. I want to get Friday copyrighted. It's my birthday, and I don't want any other fellows using it. How much will it cost?"

Rapid Increase of Life.

As illustrating the enormous powers of reproductive increase in the vegetable world, the case of a common weed, the Slaymbrium Sophia, may be cited. This weed produces three-quarters of a million seeds, and these, if they all grew and multiplied, would in three years cover the whole land surface of the globe. Darwin calculated that the slowest breeding of all animals, the elephant, would in 750 years, from a single pair, produce 19,000,000 individuals. Rabbits would, from a single pair, produce 1,000,000 individuals in four or five years.

The Wheel Track to Eternity.

Time is the most important thing in human life—for what is joy after its departure?—and the most consolatory—for pain, when time has fled, is no more. Time is the wheel track in which we roll on towards eternity, which conducts us to the incomprehensible. There is a perfecting power connected with its progress, and this operates upon us the more beneficially when we duly estimate it, listen to its voice, and do not waste it, but regard it as the highest infinite good in which all finite things are resolved.—Wilhelm von Humboldt.

Who Was There That You Knew?

In the shadowy ranks of those who marched to defeat or death or victory fifty years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is there father or grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of him in that long ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? Perhaps we can show you one; and in any case, we can tell you a story, stranger than any detective fiction, of 3,500 priceless photographs that were lost and are found again.

3,500 Long Buried Photographs of the Civil War

THEY were taken by the greatest photographer in the United States of that day; they were bought by the United States Government for $30,000; they were buried in the War Department for 50 years—they are buried there still. But a duplicate set was kept by the photographer—who died poor and broken down; that duplicate set was knocked down for less than the value of one of the photographs. From pillar to post for nearly 50 years, J. Pierpont Morgan tried to buy the New England collector, J. Pierpont Morgan tried to buy the collection—Ex-President Garfield and General Sherman P. Butler said it was worth $150,000—yet with the help of the Review or Reviews, the entire collection has been gathered into 10 great volumes and is placed within your reach at less than the value of one of the photographs. Only the one accurate, impartial history of the Civil War—this is the one accurate, impartial history of the Civil War—these photographs bring to light thousands of little-known phases of the war; they penetrate to strange places and record strange things.

WHERE DO THE PENNIES GO?

Many Millions of Them Are Coined Every Year—Thousands Taken From Circulation.

Thousands of one-cent pieces are lost each year. More than a hundred and fifty million pennies are coined annually by the Philadelphia mint and only a small percentage of them are ever accounted for. They are swept up with the rubbish of the streets.

When the new Lincoln pennies were first placed in circulation thousands were used as souvenirs, never again to be placed in general circulation. Hundreds were gold-plated and silvered, to be used as cuff links and stickpins. Then, at nearly all country fairs there are machines that mutilate pennies—they flatten the one-cent piece, and stamp a view of the fair grounds on it. This does away with thousands of the pieces.

Not long ago over 100,000 pennies were shipped to Cuba and placed in circulation among the poor class of natives. Pennies are placed in circulation almost as fast as they are coined, but very few of them are ever heard of again. The American copper cent runs a close second to the pin, of which hundreds of millions are lost every year.

SCHEME TO STOP REPEATING

Mission Head Stamped on the Beggar's Wrists "I Ate an Hour Ago."

For the first time in ten years the shabby man wore gloves, which he had wheedled out of an opulent alms-giver.

"Had to have 'em," he said, "to hide my wrists. Just see here."

The gloves were peeled off and the inscription, "I ate an hour ago," was shown on the back of each wrist.

"Been there two weeks," said the man, "and nothing but the mercy of heaven has kept me from starving to death. Clapped on with a rubber stamp that notice was, at a little missionary place where the down and outs can drop in every evening for a cup of coffee."

"The superintendent wanted to discourage repeating. He did it by means of a rubber stamp. I was one of the first guys he tried it on. The ink used that night was the kind that sticks in the wash, and every one of us poor devils who got a bite then have been advertising the fact ever since. The sign queers us at other free lunch places, for nobody will believe it is two weeks old. Maybe it will wear off some time. Until it does it's gloves for mine."

HELPING SINNING WOMEN.

Mrs. Jessie D. Hodder has been appointed superintendent of the Massachusetts Reformatory for Women. She has had considerable experience in caring for the feeble-minded and has studied the subject of erring girls thoroughly. One of her theories is that the mother should be allowed to keep the illegitimate child, and that in caring for it she will become a bigger and braver woman. She believes that the man will also be helped if he can be brought to take an interest in this illegitimate child.

THE UNHAPPY JESTER.

"I hear poor Dobbs the humorist has gone to a sanitarium," said Binks.

"Yes," said Higgins; "he's worked himself into a state of nervous prostration that I fear is incurable."

"That's too bad," said Binks. "How did he come to do that?"

"Why, six weeks ago he got an answer to a riddle, one's a chau-fur and the other's a fur show, and he says he'll never be able to sleep until he finds the question it will make a good answer to," said Higgins.—Harper's Weekly.

SALESMANSHIP.

"I'm afraid these shoes will not be big enough for me," said the lady customer, after she had with much difficulty and considerable help succeeded in getting one of them on.

"But see how nicely they show off your beautiful arched instep," said the clerk.

"Ah! It feels perfectly comfortable now. You may send them out, please."

CAREFUL GIRL.

"Where are you going, Gladys Maud?"

"Down town to get a novel for mother. It is hard these days to find a book that is fit for one's mother to read."

VICTOR HUGO'S GOLDEN GIFT.

How the Great Writer Rewarded the Chiffonnier Who Had Found His Lost Spoon.

A Paris chiffonnier makes a living of a sort, and he sometimes, in overhauling the dustbins, comes across a find. In this respect a Paris contemporary relates a capital story of Victor Hugo. A little silver gilt souvenir spoon, which the poet valued very much, disappeared. Through the carelessness of the maid servant it had found its way into the ash bucket, and in due course into the hands of the chiffonnier who practiced in the district.

This worthy succeeded in getting the poet to awake from his reveries and to descend from the lofty heights of Olympus, in other words his study, to receive back the lost spoon. Hugo was delighted to get back his souvenir. The author of "Hernani" was never a prodigal, so he rewarded the chiffonnier by presenting him with a copy of his "Les Chansons des Rues et des Sois," saying: "There, my man, you will find in it as much gold as is contained in any jewel case in the world."—London Globe.

TO WRITE DETECTIVE TALES

G. K. Chesterton, Who Does Them Himself, Gives Recipe for This Class of Stories.

For a man who writes detective stories G. K. Chesterton maintains a painfully skeptical attitude toward them. Here is "G. K. C.'s" recipe for the writing of this kind of literature, as given in the Illustrated London News:

"I like detective stories; I read them, I write them; but I do not believe them. The bones and structure of a good detective story are so old and well known that it may seem banal to state them even in outline. A policeman, stupid but sweet-tempered, and always weakly erring on the side of mercy, walks along the street, and in the course of his ordinary business finds a man in Bulgarian uniform killed with an Australian boomerang in a Brompton milk shop. Having set free all the most suspicious persons in the story, he then appeals to the bulldog professional detective, who appeals to the hawklike amateur detective.

"The latter finds near the corpse a bootlace, a button boot, a French newspaper, and a return ticket from the Hebrides, and so, relentlessly, link by link, brings the crime home to the archbishop of Canterbury."

VERSATILE APPLICANT.

A young negro approached the manager of an Alabama theater the other day and said:

"Mistah, Ah wants to speak to authority."

"To what?" asked the manager.

"To authority."

"Oh, I'm the authority here. What is it?"

"Does yo' want to hiah a good comedian?"

"No."

"Ah song an' dance jest lak Mistah Buht Williams."

"Nothing doing."

The negro hung around. "Say, mistah," he said a moment later, "does yo need a good potah leah?"

"No, got one," said the manager.

The negro still hung around. Finally he grinned and said:

"Well, say, Mistah Authority, is yo' got a ole suit of clothes yo' doan need?"

GOAT IS MAKING ENEMIES.

A goat's peculiar taste for umbrellas is causing no little resentment amongst Brighton (England) citizens. On many promenades nowadays is fixed a basket-holder for umbrellas. This goat knows it, and whenever he has a chance, due to the nursemaid talking to a cousin, for instance, he seizes the opportunity to make a meal of the umbrella. A newspaper reporter saw him busy with a nice silk one the other day, tearing great mouthfuls out of it before the nurse discovered him. Then it was the nurse who was tearful.

WISE.

"Marie, what was the preacher's text?"

"I heard it, but I've forgotten. You know I have a wretched memory."

"Well, I'll ask Mrs. Flutterby the next time I see her. She was there, wasn't she?"

"Yes—but I can't tell you anything about the hat she wore, mother, if you're trying to trap me."

WISE MEN OF WALL STREET

They Are Called "Panic Birds" and Appear Only When a Tempest Is Impending.

There is an interesting class of men who are never seen on "the street" when everything is bright and buoyant, but who flock there in droves when a tempest breeds, and stocks fall 'way down to almost nothing. They descend upon "the street" to take advantage of such conditions, and buy up stocks when at their lowest, holding them until all is peace again, and then selling at a handsome profit. They are usually veterans of the market who "know the ropes," and buy when everyone else is selling, and sell when prices are high and everyone is buying. These "wise men" of Wall street are called "panic-birds," and they always soar high above "the street" in troublous times. One "panic-bird" has flown into the whirlpool of some twenty panics and has soared with a fortune of half a million. On the other hand, one young man, with a few thousands and some ordinary horse-sense, took a "flier" in Wall street for the first time at the height—or depth—of the 1907 panic, and came out practically a millionaire.—Strand.

THE ANNUAL PROCEEDINGS

Dobbins—Pretty busy at your house?

Wobbins—Yes, my wife is preparing to go away to get tired for the summer.

ANTIQUARIAN TREASURE.

Two curious skeletons were discovered recently by workmen who were laying water mains near the old river Ivel, at Biggleswade, North Bedfordshire, England, and they have now been removed to the British museum for the consideration of the British Antiquarian society. Antiquarians are of the opinion that they are the remains of a Phoenician chieftain and his wife. As they are in a good state of preservation, the relics are of almost priceless value. The skeleton of the male measured six feet six inches, and the head was massive. The woman was laid at right angles to the man, with her feet resting against the side of his body. Apparently, when her lord died, she was slain and buried with him, according to prehistoric custom.

FEARED THE SEARCHLIGHT.

Dismay reigned amongst the inhabitants of the outer Western islands recently when a searchlight was played over their houses and fields during the visit of several warships. The islanders in their remote and lonely homes knew little of twentieth century inventions, and had no knowledge of this kind of light, and all took to prayer and Bible reading—considering that the lights were omens of coming evil. On the island of Colonsay, one of the Hebrides, H. M. S. Defence landed a big gun and 450 bluejackets. This is the biggest invasion of armed men the island has known since the days of the clan feuds.—London Mail.

POINTER FOR HOUSEWIVES.

Sububs—Well, I've just engaged two girls at the intelligence office.

Urbano—Going to keep two maids now?

Sububs—Mercy, no! I engaged one to come Monday and the other a week from Monday, when No. 1 will no doubt be leaving. I can't spend all my time hunting intelligence offices.—Judge.

SYMPATHETIC.

"I have no patience with Dobbins. He sneers at Velasquez."

"Well, I don't care much for foreigners myself, but if Velasquez is a friend of yours, I don't blame you for getting sore."

more a tramp explains the longer sentence they give him. Five days was what he would have got had he kept still; ten days was what he really did get for saying that walking was his fad. His honor said that he could do that stunt of 15 miles a day in the jail corridor.

Miss Bessie Erlanger sat in a rocker on the veranda reading a book when a man drove up in a buggy and came along up the path with a bundle under his arm. When he had introduced himself as Constable Swan he said:

"I thought you might help me to unravel this Sherlock Holmes mystery. First, I arrest a tramp in town—a young fellow who gives the name of Tillman and a song and dance about being educated and rich; also another about being robbed; also one about knowing your family. You don't know any tramp, do you?"

"Mercy, no!"

"Then a farmer calls me by telephone to arrest a tramp hanging about his barn. I do so, and I find him in a good suit of clothes, a hundred dollars in his pocket, and more clothes in a bundle. In the bundle is this letter addressed to you. You are not corresponding with any tramp, I take it?"

"Sir!"

"Beg pardon, Miss. Please open the letter."

"But the handwriting is that of a girl and I'm sure I have seen it before."

"Then the mystery deepens and Sherlock must get to work."

Of course the note was plain enough. Brother Harry was to call and leave it. Why hadn't he called? Where was he? How came his effects in possession of the tramp?

Helped Himself to It.

"Mighty queer—mighty queer," said the constable as he shook his head. "Some mighty queer things in this detective business."

"And there are some fool constables meddling with them!" exclaimed the girl as she sprang to her feet and made a dive into the house for her hat. "Now, then, I'm going to town with you. Gallop your old horse all the way. Drive straight to the jail. At the very least you will be sued for $50,000 damages."

"My soul, but what have I done but arrest two tramps!"

It didn't take over five minutes, after the jail was reached, for Sherlock Holmes to solve that case and the justice who made the ten-day sentence couldn't be quick enough about remitting the remainder of it. The suit against him, according to Miss Bessie, would be $100,000. The tramp who gobbled the clothing owned up to it like a man, and Mr. Tillman was driven out to the Erlanger residence almost as fast as his rescuer had been driven in.

"You poor, dear boy," everybody called him, and he rather liked it.

Then and there he gave up walking his 15 miles per day, and only walked with Miss Bessie about the grounds. Then and there he announced his intention to leave the ranks of those hungering for the world's championship, and it was not so very long ago that a blushing girl blushingly said:

"Yes, give it up now, though I am glad you didn't before you reached Sanford."

"Why?" he asked.

But she blushed and wouldn't answer.

INTRODUCTION ANNOYED HER

Haughty Little Miss Shows Her Resentment When Presented to a Terrier.

There is a little East End girl, still under six, who reaches the limit in the matter of sensitiveness. Likewise, she has her points in respect to dead-gameness. She was taken out to Lakewood about a week ago to spend a few days with her aunt. The little Miss played around in front of her aunt's place for awhile. Then her aunt let a playful young terrier into the yard, saying to the child: "This is your little four-footed cousin."

Five minutes later the aunt returned to the front yard to call the kid into the house, but she wasn't anywhere to be seen. The fox terrier was playing alone. There was a scrambling hunt for the child, and all kinds of alarm, but the little girl didn't turn up. The aunt hustled to town. The little girl was home with her mother.

She had walked right to the car for town as soon as the fox terrier pup was presented to her.

"Why didn't you stay at aunt's?" her mother asked her in surprise. "She introduced me to a dog!" replied the haughty little person.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Annual Rat-Killing Day.

Although the war on rats is waged more or less persistently all the year around, Gibson County, Ind., has an annual rat-killing day, at which time the most strenuous kind of measures are taken. The observance of the second annual rat day occurred in June at which time 4,000 rats were slaughtered. The government estimates that each rat costs two cents a day for maintenance, so Gibson County by this slaughter saved nearly $30,000 for a year, to say nothing of the saving from future descendants of the rodents thus killed.—From the August number of Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Curing Rheumatism.

The latest treatment for rheumatism is described in the August number of Popular Mechanics Magazine. The patient undergoing the bee-sting cure visits the apiary twice each week and at each visit allows the honey bees to sting him from three to five times right over the spot where the rheumatism is painful.

Old Lady's Sage Advice.

Knoxville, Tenn.—Mrs. Mamie Towe, of 102 W. Main Street, this city, says: "If you had seen me before I began to take Cardui, you would not think I was the same person. Six doctors failed to do me good and my friends thought I would die. I could hardly get out of bed or walk a step. At last an old lady advised me to take Cardui, and now I can go most anywhere."

All ailing women need Cardui, a gentle, refreshing tonic, especially adapted to their peculiar ailments. It is a reliable, vegetable remedy, successfully used for over 50 years you ought to try it.

Still Wants Platform.

The Democratic voters of Kentucky should now have the chance that was promised them of making their own platform. To deny them this privilege would be a great tactical blunder.

To Purify Water.

To purify water sprinkle a tablespoonful of pulverized alum into a hogshead of water (the water to be stirred at the same time). It will after a few hours, by precipitating to the bottom the impure particles, so purify the water that it will be found to possess nearly all the freshness and clearness of spring water. A pailful containing four gallons may be purified by a teaspoonful of alum.—National Magazine.

Both of Fay's eyes were injured, one quite badly, but his injuries are not expected to be so serious as to destroy the sight.

Frieburg is more seriously hurt and while the exact extent of his injuries cannot yet be told it is feared that his sight may be destroyed or his vision permanently impaired.

Fay is the well known baseball pitcher and worked in several games last season for the Hopkinsville K. I. T. team. Frieburg has lived here for many years and is prominent as an engineer and electrician.

Advance Step Taken.

A new stock law now expressly forbids the running at large of stock anywhere in Montgomery county. This law was enacted by the recent General Assembly. Under its provisions parties who allow stock to run loose are subject to indictment and fine. The no-fence law applies to all parts of the county, and there are no exceptions to it. Consequently those who have cows running at large anywhere in Clarksville come within this law.

FIRST OF ALL "INTERVIEWS"

John Stow's Statements About the Opposition to May Celebrations Was Published in 1603.

In 1603, when England had passed from the sway of the Plantagenets to that of the Tudors, John Stow, the old chronicler of London, was actually interviewed (and this is the oldest instance of published interview I have ever found) in regard to this ancient Maypole of St. Andrew-Under-Shaft. The old man spoke of the singular opposition to the May celebrations as follows:

"And opposite to the Church of St. Mary Axe, is the goodly Church of St. Andrew-Under-Shaft. Of churches we have fewer than of old. As for piety, truly I see no difference, for some will always be pious, and some prodigal and profligate. I remember the Maypole when it hung upon the hooks along the south wall of the church. I never saw it erected, because Evil-May-Day before I was born, when the prentices rose against the aliens, was the last time when it was up. It was destroyed in King Edward's time (the only son of Henry VIII., by Jane Seymour, 1537-1553) when it was preached at Paul's Cross, that the Maypole was an idol. So the people brought axes and cut it up—the goodliest Maypole that the world has ever seen, and taller than the steeple of the church."—Richard H. Clarke, in Columbian.

CHECKLESS

Reginald—You may try to hold me in like you did last year, but I will see that I go through my vacation this summer unchecked.

His Father—That's what you will. I'll see that checks to you are cut out altogether.

TRAGEDY BROUGHT TO LIGHT.

Evidences of a bygone tragedy have been unearthed at Horton, a little village in the peaceful peninsula of Gower, Wales. A resident was walking along the beach a few days ago when he stumbled against a bone protruding from the ground. His curiosity was aroused, and he procured a spade, and eventually dug up what proved to be human remains. The spot at which the gruesome discovery was made was by the side of a small cliff, and it is known that the sea has encroached upon the coastline, and the probability is that several feet or more of ground had been washed away and so unearthed the hidden remains, which, however, had evidently been slung into a hole there over a hundred years ago. With the remains was found an old-fashioned dagger, encrusted with rust, and this fact suggests tragedy.

OLD SCOTTISH BAGPIPE.

What is doubtless the finest example extant of the old Highland war bagpipe was unearthed recently by Muirhead Moffat, Glasgow. This rare instrument is beautifully ornamented with Celtic patterns, carved in circular bands. On the stock are the letters R. M. D., below them a galley, under which in Roman numerals the date 1409. The lettering is of the Gothic form commonly used in the fifteenth century. The drones and chanter are ornamented with bands of interlaced work, the drone having brass ornamented ferrules. An old Highland dirk with interlaced grip and unique screw top, evidently for carrying dispatches, and a large brass Celtic brooch are included in the find.

FROM MAN'S POINT OF VIEW.

Professor Ferro has been much criticized for the tone of his articles in regard to women. One woman said in answer to him that a handsome man is as much a menace to the peace of mind of women as a handsome woman is to that of men. She said that Professor Ferro talked only from a man's point of view.

TRYING TO REFORM NATURE

Plan to Produce a Stingless Bee Given Rise to Many Other Desirable Proposed Changes.

The proposal to rob the bee of its sting is revived by a professor in one of our universities. It may be a good thing for beekeepers, though they do not appear to be clamoring overhard for the reform; but what about the bee itself? That it needed a sting to establish itself in business, so to speak, is beyond question. Otherwise nature would not have taken the trouble of providing it with one.

The interest of the plan for the non-apianian lover of animal nature lies rather in the possibilities it suggests in other directions. A non-crowling rooster would be a boon to the suburbanite and the summer vacationer, especially since M. Rostand has demonstrated that the sun would rise none the less. Non-chirping matutinal birds are also much to be desired, and screechless night owls. Barkless seals would be a boon to visitors to the zoo with tender eardrums; but, speaking of barks, the varieties of dogs that least indulge in that method of relieving their emotions are prone to bite. Indeed, a biteless dog is more to be desired than a barkless one. Miauling cats readily respond to treatment with projectiles, and need not detain us. They have troubles of their own, anyhow, just now, chiefly connected with their hospitality to microbes. A brayless donkey can be improvised on the moment by tying a weight to its tail.—New York Tribune.

Her Suitor—Well—I—er—er—only want one, sir.

THE CAR AND THE HIGHWAY.

"Nothing has given so forceful an impetus to the movement for road-building as the automobile," writes Thaddeus S. Dayton in Harper's Weekly. Millions of dollars are being spent upon state roads. "The time is not far distant when the federal government will step in and aid in their construction. There is a bill before congress for an ocean-to-ocean highway, which shall have a right of way a mile wide. The highway proper is to be 1,430 feet wide. Along this will be roads with a macadam surface, steel tracks for electric cars, steel-plate tracks for fast automobiles, and cement ways for motor cars going less than twenty-five miles an hour. It is planned to have this highway follow the thirty-fifth parallel of latitude."

CARRIED SAD MESSAGE.

A pigeon's message roused much speculation in the little Welsh village of Croesyceiliog, the other morning. When Mr. John Thomas, Flynonberwyn farm, was in his garden two pigeons alighted on the roof of the barn. He good-naturedly scattered corn on the ground for them. Without any hesitation the birds alighted, and afterward approached Mr. Thomas quite familiarly to eat corn from the palm of his hand. On examining them he found, in addition to a ring and a number marked on each bird, that one had a label round its leg on which was written, "Your sister is dead." After eating heartily the pigeons took to flight again with the mysterious message, but whither is not known.

THE CAUSE.

"That man keeps things humming, doesn't he?"
"Yes, but sometimes I'm afraid it is the bees in his bonnet."

HARD TO DIAGNOSE.

"He wears a worried look."
"Yes, and he won't say whether it is due to business cares, domestic trouble or baseball."

DIVERSIONS OF EARLIER GEORGIA

Micajah Williamson kept a licensed tavern in the town of Washington. In front of this tavern was a large picture of George Washington hanging as a swinging sign. John Clarke (governor 1819-23) used to come to town and, like most men of his day, get drunk. They all did not "cut up," however, as he did on such occasions. He went into stores and smashed things generally, as tradition says, but he always came back and paid for them like a gentleman. Once he came into town intoxicated and galloped down Court street and fired through the picture of General Washington before the tavern door. This was brought up against him later when he was a candidate for governor, but his friends denied it.—Macon Telegraph.

Summers, the extra pitcher, was in order to bring the Moguls to twelve men.

McArthur came home Tuesday on a vacation till Saturday.

Naim tried to catch for a change at Henderson in one game, and lasted two innings. Every big player has a part of his own.

Hopkinsville won because Manager Naim was fortunate in assembling a team of players very early in the season and having to make few changes in the line up. Vincennes was late in getting ready and after a couple of weeks had to assemble almost a new team. After the Alices were organized they went like champions and with a few more games would undoubtedly have caught the Hoppers.—Vincennes Capital.

Pitcher Harry Hoyt, released by Vincennes, has gone with Terre Haute in the Central. Gooyun, with Paducah last year, has been let out to make way for Hoyt.

That Wonderful Oil Pull Engine.

Two months ago Dr. J. A. B. Word, of Oak Grove, took the bit in his teeth and bought a Rumley Outfit, consisting of an Oil Pull Engine and a full threshing outfit and a gang plow with ten plows, with a cut of 14 inches each. He threshed his wheat without a hitch with 30 gallons of oil per day costing $1.50. Now he is fallowing thirty acres of land per day with this rig, burning 50 gallons of each day costing $3.50.

He has a harrow hooked on behind his gang, and leaves the ground in a fine condition. It took nerve to pay the price, but the man with nerve is the man who eventually wins out. It is the best investment the Doctor ever made.

Mules and Feed are Getting Higher Each Year.

A farmer is too wise to feed every thing he raises to mules to raise it with. It costs $120.00 to own and feed a mule every year. Labor is getting scarcer, less dependable and more costly all the time. Be wise. The wheat kings of Christian County can't afford to fallow their 500 and 1,000 acres with mules.

We can get you a rig here within five days. Let us put you right.

It costs in corn and hay $10.00 to fallow 30 acres with mules and $15.00 for hands and feeding equaling $25.00. With an Oil Pull and Gang it costs $3.50 for feed and $3.50 for labor, equaling $7.00. You cannot afford to lose that $18.00.
